The John Dewey Lecture in the Philosophy of Law is named in honor of John Dewey, American philosopher, educator, and scholar. A proponent of legal realism, Dewey's philosophy of pragmatism related his conception of a moral life to a variety of contemporary social, economic, and political issues. Dewey lived from 1859 to 1952 and spent one year as a professor of philosophy at the University of Minnesota. The John Dewey lecture is funded by a grant from the John Dewey Foundation and is sponsored by the University of Minnesota Law School to provide a forum for significant scholarly contributions to the development of jurisprudence.

MOSHE HALBERTAL is the Gruss Professor of Law at NYU School of Law, the John and Golda Cohen Professor of Jewish Thought and Philosophy at the Hebrew University and a Professor of Law at IDC. He received his PhD from Hebrew University in 1989, and from 1988 to 1992 he was a fellow at the Society of Fellows at Harvard University. Halbertal served as a visiting professor at Harvard Law School, University of Pennsylvania Law School and Yale Law School. He is the author of Idolatry (co-authored with Avishai Margalit, 1992); People of the Book: Canon, Meaning, and Authority (1997) both published by Harvard University Press; Concealment and Revelation: Esotericism in Jewish Tradition and Its Philosophical Implications (2007); On Sacrifice (2012); Maimonides: Life and Thought (2013) all published by Princeton University Press; and several books published in Hebrew, including Interpretative Revolutions in the Making (1997) and By Way of Truth: Nahmanides and the Creation of Tradition (2000). In 2010, Halbertal was named a member of Israel's Academy for the Sciences and the Humanities.

PROTECTING CIVILIANS: MORAL CHALLENGES OF ASYMMETRIC WARFARE

Contemporary warfare is often conducted among dense civilian populations, sometimes within a space in which combatants attempt to blend into their civilian environment. The lecture will address the normative scope of the obligation to protect civilians who are thrust into such a perilous situation.
